

Leave a Bible Question

Please feel free to leave me any Bible question! You can do so through my email at djensen13@live.com. I can't promise you that I will be able to answer every question as I definitely don't have all of the answers. That is sincerely not false humility; I still have many questions of my own! But, I do promise that if I am able to respond to you, I will do my best to answer your question as best I can. Even if I can only give a partial answer, I will try to do so. I do apologize for the fact that I cannot guarantee I will be able to get to your question as I get a lot of emails. With that said, I do try to respond to as many of my emails as possible, and if I feel led to answer your question, I will gladly do so.

And the questions do not have to be about something that is found directly in the Bible. You can ask me about anything that pertains to the Bible. So, for instance, if you want to know what the Bible has to say about driving cars, that is a very legitimate question. Obviously, I cannot give you anything too direct as the Bible does not talk about driving cars as they were not invented yet during biblical times. However, the Bible does give to us many principles that would apply to driving cars today. With all of that said, if you want me to get super specific about a subject not found in the Bible that is not my area of expertise, I probably won't answer the question. I am not an expert in all subjects, not even close. Hence, for example, if you asked me about the differences between the different types of car engines, I'm not your guy as I'm not a car guy.

You can also ask me anything directly about any of my works. Again, I cannot promise I will get to your question, but I will try my best to answer as many questions as I can.

Ok, bring 'em on!
